Song for a Friend

It's been a long time we've been living busy lives just getting on with it when did we change thought growing up would be slow but all those drug driving nights seem a long long time ago so it's good to see you you look well it's like no time's gone between us yet there's still so much to tell about your job my parents the old friends we never see and how you've just got engaged to the man of your dreams so when I met the love of your life I don't know what I expected though certainly not the man that you've selected but you seem happy and I know that opposites attract but my overwhelming feeling is your boyfriend is a twat he's a twat he's a twat I would say wanker or dickhead but he's so much worse than that he was patronising condescending his list of faults is never ending telling jokes with misogynistic connotations my heart sinks every time we have a conversation when people ask you questions he responds on your behalf and has the smug little asshole ever really made you laugh now I can't tell you how to live your life and I wouldn't do that but darling I've just got to say your boyfriend is a twat he's a twat he's a twat I would say douchebag or anus breath but he's so much worse than that he's a twat an utter twat and I wish you knew how much better you could do than that perhaps I'm being overly protective and things look different from your perspective don't want to be that jealous friend desperate for your happiness to end but I know deep down that's not true and I only want the best for you so I'm telling you this undisputed fact your boyfriend he really is he truly is a massive twat he's a twat he's a twat I would say piss stain or Tory boy but he's so much worse than that he's a twat an utter twat and I wish you knew how much better you could do than that

We Want Love

Here again propped at the bar on a Friday night whisky inside telling me I look alright (oh oh oh I'm alright) then I saw you there doing that pelvic dance and I thought that's quite provocative this must be modern romance and when you smiled at me electricity shot through my body so I ignored you pretended to look busy texting on my phone cos everybody knows that desperation shows and we all know how it goes we want love but we're emotionally distant love but we will try to resist it pretend we're not looking for it round every corner now we want love to find us every day love but we will push it away love and not just someone to blame when things don't go our way we want love I take the same busy every day to work and on my route there was a cute boy I wanted to get to know better and then one day he wrote me a letter it said I see you every day and I don't know what to say but I think you're really pretty would you like to have a drink in this lonely city with me here's my number and I thought he looks perfect exactly what I want so I said please don't get involved with me I've got mental instabilities and STDs oh it's clear to see we want love but we're emotionally distant love but we will try to resist it pretend we're not looking for it round every corner now we want love to find us every day love but we will push it away love and not just someone to blame when things don't go our way we want love so this song goes out to anyone who never texts back to the people who buy you flowers one day then disappear the next to the people who spend every single waking second of their lives looking for love so they can kick it in the face in the classrooms and the saunas in the dark rooms on street corners in the offices and trendy bars swimming pools back seats of cars everywhere that humans go we guarantee there'll be people finding love and fucking it up we want love but we're emotionally distant love but we will try to resist it pretend we're not looking for it round every corner now we want love to find us every day love but we will push it away love and not just someone to blame when things don't go our way we want love

Forget You

Black scenes in my dreams I'm swimming under ice I try to keep the picture clean try to keep the paper white so long now since I heard you that I don't recall the verse but the melody still sings through the song do do do do do do now the power's been cut off the lights have all gone out the needles back to rest but you're still spinning round and I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head black scenes in my dreams I wish away the time I try to keep you as a sketch and rub away the lines so long now since I saw you that I don't recall your face but that melody still sings through the song do do do do do do now the power's been cut off the lights have all gone out the needles back to rest but you're still spinning round and I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head your bass and your drum your song keeps playing on your melody's in my top twenty don't know if you were number one but I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head I wish I could forget you but you keep playing in my head
